Hooksett Riverwalk Trail — The grand opening on Sept 28, 2016 unveiled nearly one mile of trail, bridge, and boardwalks. Walk the shores of the Merrimack, enjoy our protected wildlife, and explore the rich history that we call home.

Pinnacle Park in Hooksett provides scenic outlooks with panoramic views of the Merrimack River and Town. New trails will soon loop back to the parking area from the Summit, where history, nature, and wildlife all come together.

Parking at Hooksett Dog Park

Hooksett’s history and heritage has been permanently protected along the scenic shores of the Merrimack:
- 40-foot bridge spanning Brown’s Brook
- 126 acres of wetlands, fields, wildlife, and natural resources
- 1.8 miles of trail design (first phase open now)
- Site of the Head & Son Brickyard (1850-1930), this property is depicted on Hooksett’s Town seal
- Multiple bald eagle sightings!

Pinnacle Park Trail

Pinnacle St. off Rt 3A between Hackett Hill Rd and Pine St., parking area on the right

The Pinnacle was listed on the NH State Register of Historic Places in 2011.
Pinnacle Park was dedicated to Arthur “Bud” Locke, a long-time Hooksett resident, WWII veteran, and local hero; and to his wife Lorraine, on October 29, 2016.

"We could see rising before us through the mist a dark conical eminence called Hooksett Pinnacle."
A Week on the Concord and Merrimack Rivers — Henry David Thoreau (1839)

The Summit at Pinnacle Park offers some of the most spectacular views of the Town and river. The hike from the parking area is less than one mile.

The grand opening ceremony of the Hooksett Riverwalk Trail included the dedication of the kiosk built by Oliver Mack for his Eagle Scout project with members of Boy Scout Troop 292
